Dear members and friends,

It is wonderful to be talking about our spring and summer programs and events. Especially when our warm early spring days have been replaced with fall-like days, even if it is May.

The Museum celebrated our 40 years with a birthday party on April 2 with great spirits and fun memories as well as exciting plans for the future. Our 40th Anniversary Campaign is now in its final stage and we need another $100,000 to reach our goal. We are so thankful to all who have participated and we encourage you to donate again, if you can, and for others we greatly welcome your support to help us reach the $1 million goal. Some of our projects have started and we hope to have the new kitchen in 2017 and, fingers crossed, the Water Tower place for everyone.

The special exhibits connect our Museum to our visitors and members in different ways. Currently we are learning more about energy efficiency and sustainability with our exhibit in the gallery space 22 Sustainable Houses from Bollnäs to Kiruna while the second floor Chicago Streetwalk photographs connect us to Chicago with images of everyday situations taken with the special eye of Mats Alfredsson.

This summer the gallery will host “Nordic - A photographic essay of landscapes” by Magnus Nilsson. We are planning to have special food events that connect with Tre Kronor but also some of our local restaurants in Andersonville and greater Chicago, during the exhibit. Magnus Nilsson is the owner of Fäviken, one of three 2 star Michelin Nordic Guide restaurants in Sweden. The exhibit is produced by American Swedish Institute in Minneapolis and in addition to photos by Magnus Nilsson there are photographs of the restaurant by Cameron Wittig and Po Tidholm from Minneapolis. The timing of the exhibit and our new kitchen is very special. Look for special mailing related to the exhibit.

The Museum is once again invited to be part of Millennium Park Family Fun with activities for children during a whole week, June 26-July 2. Come and see us and if you want to help, please contact Stacey Nyman, our education manager.

It is great to, once again, have all our staff positions filled and we have a fabulous team working at the Museum.

Everyone is strong in their own area and best of all they work very well together. Please introduce yourself next time you come and visit so we all can connect names and faces of our members and friends of the Museum.

The Museum is once again the sponsor of the Swedish Stage and the Beer Booth at this year’s Midsommarfest on June 10 and 11, and we have a full music line-up, see page 13 for details. We will need many volunteers to help with Museum activities during the day and the Beer Booth throughout the festival. Please contact us if you can help for a two-hour shift, or more, it is a fun event and a great support to the Museum.

Have a wonderful spring and summer and safe travels if you go back to Sweden or if you stay here in Chicago or the United States. Thank you all for all your support and for your help to continue to make our Museum a great place for everyone.

Trevliga Hälsningar,

Karin Moen Abercrombie
Executive Director
We have two new exhibits in the Museum through spring. Hanging in the main gallery is 22 Sustainable Houses from Bollnäs to Kiruna, featuring sustainable structures that highlight the wide range of results that come from the design of sustainable buildings. Each building is presented with photographs and a description of how the architects used sustainable building practices in that project. All of the structures are located in northern Sweden, showcasing how sustainable architecture can be designed in harsh climates. Given the complex, creative considerations that go into sustainable design, we believe the exhibit is a revelation for anyone who daily spends time in buildings. Complementing the exhibit are objects from the Museum collection.

On March 26, the Museum hosted a talk by Ulf Nordwall, editor of the book Sustainable Houses in Cold Climates upon which the exhibit is based, and Urban Keskitalo. They discussed the details of each building in the exhibit, including the challenges and successes of building these types of houses in Sweden’s northern climate. Keskitalo talked about current building projects and one of our more popular discussions to date this year.

In the Raoul Wallenberg gallery, we are featuring the photography of Mats Alfredsson, accompanied by several quotes from Carl Sandburg. A native of Borås, Sweden, Mats has been photographing street scenes for decades. Chicago Streetwalk, based on his photography book featuring candid moments of Chicagoans making their way around the city, is, in his words, “my tribute to the Windy City and its people.”

“For me, street photography is to discover and document what others usually don’t see. Small human events in the public space, which normally go unnoticed, but in the frozen moment leave traces. My passion for this classic genre is based on a genuine interest in people of all ages and social classes.”

The opening reception for this exhibit was March 30, with about 40 people on hand to view Mats’ work and congratulate him on capturing the Chicago spirit so beautifully in images. Given Mats’ Swedish Chicago connections, the second floor echoed with a lot of Swedish accents and laughter from a very diverse, encouraging crowd.

Along with signing his book (currently on sale in the Museum Store), Mats discussed his influences and inspirations as a street photographer. This engaging exhibit will be on display through July.
New Faces at the Museum

We would like to take this opportunity to introduce some of the new faces you might have seen around the Museum.

Rebekah, Scott, Luana and Madeleine have come on board to offer the Museum their skills and talents as volunteers. Rebekah has recently joined us to “support the Museum in its mission of education; preserving and sharing the history of Sverige and Svensk immigrants to the United States.” Her parents came from Sweden (she is half Sami) and she is hoping to learn more about Swedish culture and her heritage. Rebekah lives in Evanston and works as a nanny now that her three children have gone off to college. Scott recently moved to Chicago and is “hoping to get involved in [his] new neighborhood” by learning about one of the biggest cultural aspects of Andersonville. After graduating from the University of Indiana in December, Scott transported himself here and currently works at Berlin Packaging. Scott thoroughly enjoys running, volunteering, reading and meeting new people. Luana and her husband recently moved to Chicago from Australia but she is originally from Brazil where she worked in marketing and advertising. While in Chicago, she is studying integrated marketing and is working to improve her English at DePaul University. She is very excited to learn about two cultures during her time here in Chicago. Madeleine has joined us from Stockholm, Sweden.

She moved to Chicago to pursue her master’s degree in integrated marketing communications. She hopes to help the Museum reach a larger audience.

Currently the Museum has four interns who look to gain valuable skills to take with them in future endeavors. We have two interns working with the Kerstin Andersson Museum Store and Brunk Children’s Museum of Immigration, one with marketing and communication and one with the curator.

Sarah and Maribel are currently working with the Museum Store but will soon start their work in the Children’s Museum. Both study psychology with an emphasis on early childhood at Northeastern Illinois University. Sarah is a senior who will be graduating in May. She reflected on her experience interning at the Museum Store saying, “Out of this experience, I hope to gain a better understanding of the museum industry as a whole.” Sarah hopes to one day be a dance therapist to help children on the autism spectrum. Maribel has a passion for working with children. As an intern at the Museum, she “hopes to learn the ways the museum presents cultural and immigration information to visitors of all ages.” After graduation, Maribel hopes to put what she learned toward her childhood psychology emphasis.

The communications department has gained a new intern, Mary Kate, who is an avid fan of museums and all things history. Mary Kate is a junior studying communication with an emphasis on film at Loyola University Chicago. She explains her love for historic institutions such as ours, saying, “Learning about new and interesting aspects of cultures and history is fascinating and a humbling way to realize how interconnected we all are on this earth.” Mary Kate helps with social media, marketing, planning and promoting for the Museum. She is very fond of her time here and hopes to one day go into museum work and create documentaries.

Moa is currently studying curatorial studies at Stockholm University with an emphasis on historical artifacts. She has a BA degree in Fashion Studies and a great interest in the cultural heritage of traditional Nordic folk costumes and the relationship between clothing and national identity. Moa hopes to learn more about the curatorial work at the museum and the Swedish-American culture. Interns and volunteers are an integral part of the running of our Museum – they offer as much as they learn to our community here. It is our goal to make interns feel appreciated and valued while they are learning valuable, practical skills for their future endeavors. Mary Kate Williams
Our New Curator: Keith Ulrich

As a relatively “fresh” museum professional, I am thrilled to join the team at the Swedish American Museum as curator. Having been a volunteer here since 2015 getting to know the staff and other volunteers, I could tell this is a great fit and consider myself lucky that Karin and the Board felt the same way.

I graduated with a bachelor’s degree in journalism from Northern Illinois University in DeKalb in 1996. After a nearly 20-year career in publishing in which I edited local history books, middle school educational textbooks, architectural engineering manuals and healthcare materials, I decided to go back to school for a graduate-level certificate in Museum Studies. After spending a year in the program, a year in which I was reminded daily of how little I have in common with college-aged students, I landed a job as Director of Programs at the Lombard Historical Society, about 30 miles west of Chicago. It was a great experience, but I am certainly happy to be working in Chicago, and especially at a museum so close to home (I live in Edgewater).

As curator, I am excited to spend time interacting with our awesome volunteers, visitors, and board members as I transition onto the team. As well, if you or any one you know is interested in learning more about collections care and management, I am always looking for volunteers to help preserve our history!

Our New Member & Community Engagement Manager: Caroline Gerbaulet-Vanasse

Goddag! Hur mår ni allihop? Hello! How are you all doing?
I look forward to getting to know you all better! As both a Swedish and an American citizen, and as a volunteer at the museum myself, I am eager to begin my new role as your Member & Community Engagement Manager! I am excited to join the team here at the Swedish American Museum.

My journey started during my high school years (beginning in 2002), when I began volunteering at the museum. Back then, a spark was ignited and I hoped that one day I might work here. Since then I graduated with a BA in Psychology, with a minor in History, from Richmond American International University in London, England. During my years in London, I volunteered at The National Archives near Kew Gardens. I earned my master’s degree in library and information studies from McGill University in Montreal, Canada, in 2012. There I learned things that are not only relevant to libraries, but to museums as well. Upon my return to Chicago, I volunteered at the Shedd Aquarium, where I helped collect visitor feedback. Since 2013 I have worked at Powell’s Books Chicago in Hyde Park. Working in a bookstore is every bookworm’s dream, and I enjoyed my time there very much. When not at work, I enjoy traveling, reading, making art and being amongst animals. I have two orange tabby cats named Bambi and Faline, who both turned 1-year-old this April.

Throughout the years, I have continued to volunteer at SAM and attend events. The thought of working here has never been far from my mind, and I am still pinching myself now that the dream has become reality! I cannot wait to do my part to help continue to make this a great museum for members, volunteers and visitors alike! Come speak Swedish with me any time!

Two new members were elected to the Swedish American Museum’s Board of Directors during the April 11 Annual Meeting.

Elizabeth Peterson is an attorney who grew up in Lake Forest, Ill. All of her father’s grandparents emigrated from Sweden to Chicago at the beginning of the 20th century. In 2000, she signed up for a beginning Swedish language course at Brown University and spent the following summer taking language and culture classes in Uppsala.

Liz graduated from Brown in 2003 with a bachelor’s degree in political science. She returned to Sweden that fall to pursue a degree in international studies at Uppsala Universitet. She completed her degree in 2004 and returned to the United States to start law school at Washington University in St. Louis.

Liz returned to Sweden after her first year of law school to conduct research on the Swedish judiciary. She also spent time at the Silk Road Studies Project in Uppsala and co-authored a conference report about organized crime in the Baltic Sea region.

Liz graduated from law school in 2007, passed the Illinois bar exam and began practicing law in Chicago. She started in a general commercial litigation practice, and ended up practicing bankruptcy law. She currently represents clients on a pro bono basis through Chicago Volunteer Legal Services.

She is a member of the Chicago Humanities Festival’s Shortlist Committee, which seeks to attract young professionals to the festival, and a board member of the Brown Club of Chicago.

Frank Schneider has been a Chicagoan since 1992 and currently lives in the Logan Square neighborhood. With a bachelor’s degree in architecture from the University of Illinois at Chicago, he has worked in architecture and real estate throughout his career.

Frank has been a Swedish American Museum volunteer for more than 10 years. He has dressed as “Frey the Viking” for the Brunk Children’s Museum of Immigration Viking Breakfast and has assisted children with craft projects. On the Ball Committee for the Ruby Gala benefit, he helped design and fabricate centerpieces.

Frank has been a member of the Chicago Art Deco Society (CADS) for over 20 years and a volunteer for the past 17 years. His role in CADS includes advocating for historic preservation of endangered Chicago buildings and structures in the Art Deco style.

Frank is a founding volunteer and current supervisor at the Whipple Community Garden in Logan Square. His responsibilities have included assisting with the garden’s design and layout and providing ongoing maintenance and volunteer coordination.

Election of Officers

Following the Annual Meeting, the Museum’s Board of Directors elected officers for 2017-2018. Serving on the Executive Committee are Janet Nelson, chair; Cathy Holmquist, vice chair; Else-Britt DeLong, secretary; Dan Juran, treasurer.

Kerstin Andersson Museum Store

Coming this spring to the Kerstin Andersson Museum Store is a product that will make pet lovers howl. Happy Pet Project Ceramic Food and Water Bowls, from Magisso, are ceramic bowls designed especially for your dogs’ and cats’ dining pleasure and health. Self-cooling ceramic pet bowls will keep pet food and water cool for hours, keeping food fresh without the need of a refrigerator, even on a warm day. All you have to do is run the bowl under cold water for 60 seconds.

The neat thing about terracotta is that, when wet, it creates its own refrigeration using a system of heat exchange. The unglazed, porous terracotta surface absorbs the water and sends it back to the outer surface. When the water makes contact with the air, evaporation occurs and, as the liquid water turns to gas, the reaction cools the object and whatever is inside. This process goes on for hours with only a 60-second initial contact with water.

You cannot see the science, but you can see the design, and these are ingenious and stylish bowls. The exterior, matte, terracotta colors come in black and soft pink and blue. Inside, each bowl is glazed in a glossy cream surface safe for food.

In addition to plain bowls, the series also includes the Happy Pet Project Slow Dining Bowls. These bowls have all of the same features as the original bowls but have an added three-dimensional shape rising from the bottom of the bowl. Dog bowls, large and small, feature bones and cat bowls, fish. Veterinarians praise the Slow Dining Bowls for helping pets with over-eating issues by preventing the ability to gulp food. This aids in chewing and is ultimately good for dental hygiene.

Even if you do not have a pet, think about getting one to set outside for the hot and thirsty pets in your neighborhood.

Change and the Swedish American Genealogy Center

The Greek philosopher Heraclitus stated, “Change is the only constant in life.” This has been translated as “the only constant is change.” Change is certainly occurring at the Swedish American Museum, and more changes are planned. The staff and the Executive Director have new office space. Plans have been made for other changes, including upgrading to a commercial kitchen, expansion of the second floor exhibit space, upgraded classroom and improved energy-efficient heating and cooling systems.

The Genealogy Center has also undergone a change when it moved from the third floor to the second floor. Paint and new carpeting provide an inviting environment. The new furniture arrived, just in time for the 40th birthday party. With a sleek Scandinavian look, the room is now airy and bright.

Last year the Nordic Family Research Center changed its name to the Swedish American Genealogical Society. Past clients served in the Center brought questions about Swedish ancestry, but questions regarding other Nordic countries did not arise. Altering the name was a change but the Wednesday afternoon research and Saturday programs have remained constant. Check the website for a list of these programs, which are held on the fourth Saturday of most months.

There was also a change to the Swedish American Genealogical Society Advisory Board. New member Bengt Sjögren joined Dr. Daniel Hubbard, Sue Jackson, Kathy Meade, Wayne Nelson, Sue Nordstrom and Vereen Nordstrom.

Visit the Museum to discover what changes are happening. Plan a visit to do research in the improved Genealogy Center and perhaps change your family tree with additional “branches and twigs.” We might be interested in the past, but we are also ready for future changes. Come join us.
The Museum celebrated its 40th anniversary with a birthday party. About 140 people gathered April 2 for an evening of music, memories and new beginnings.

The evening started with a greeting by 48th Ward Alderman Harry Osterman, who reminded us all what an important part the Museum plays in the Andersonville community. A scavenger hunt took us through the Museum looking for pictures from the past, and people enjoyed pictures and added a personal message or memory on a memory wall created for the occasion.

The evening was filled with music by Like Minds Trio, and as a special treat Ulla Silversten created a Museum Song to the tune of “Mamma Mia” to which all could sing along. Tre Kronor provided wonderful Swedish hors d’oeuvres and Wikstrom’s Specialty Foods donated a cheese platter.

Paul Rimington, Annette Seaberg and Bengt Sjögren took us through the Museum’s past, present and future. Paul reminded us of the very first fundraisers, challenges and triumphs. Annette took us through the last 10 years with Karin at the wheel. Bengt looked toward the future with the return of the water tower tank and expected building renovations. Gerd Sjögren from the Swedish Consulate talked about the vital role the Museum plays for Swedes here in America. She explained how her son did not miss a single class in all his years at the Swedish school and what a difference that makes in keeping language and culture alive.

The new Genealogy Center opened with a ribbon cutting ceremony, champagne toast and birthday cake, with comments from Barbara Rafaill from the Delmar & Audria M. Olson Family Foundation and Bengt Sjögren. It was a wonderful evening, and people were reluctant to leave when the festivities ended.

Education: Brunk Children’s Museum of Immigration

While our children’s programs and events are educational, they have the added bonus of being fun! The year is full of entertainment and learning with old favorites and new additions to the calendar! If you haven’t been to a family event, please consider attending in the future. Kids aren’t the only ones who have fun! Read on to explore the past, present and future of what’s going on at the Brunk Children’s Museum of Immigration.

The Past: This March brought one of the most entertaining events: Pancakes with Pippi. Guests arrived to energetic, silly and bouncing Pippi Longstocking! She played, crafted and giggled her way through the morning. Guests watched with delight as she made pancakes HER way (she added baby food and pretzels!) and led them in a game of “Pippi Says” followed by a scavenger hunt through the Museum. Everyone took home Pippi Braids or Mr. Nilsson ears, a parrot puppet and a box full of loot from the hunt. It was a delightful morning as always!

The Present: It is hard to believe, but we are coming very close to the end of the academic year. That doesn’t mean, however, that our youth tours will end. We run tours for children and young adults year round. During the school year, we have a school group most mornings. During the summer, we have day camps and early childhood centers visiting. Homeschool groups come all year long. Every day brings a new bunch of smiling, eager faces ready to discover, play and learn.

The Future: With summer comes one of our most popular programs, “Pioneer the World Day Camp.” Offered in two sessions, each lasting one week, the camp exposes children to other cultures as they “travel” the world each day. While the four countries that we are visiting in 2017 are being kept secret, in the past we have visited places like Hawaii, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Brazil, Japan, Palestine, Australia, Germany, Poland, the Philippines and of course Sweden! While exploring each of the four countries, campers learn about the culture through activities like dance, music, storytelling, art, food, sports and games. On the last day, campers plan and lead a World’s Fair to showcase all they have learned while traveling the globe. This year, camp is being held July 31-August 4 and August 14-18. Visit our website for more information and to register, or use the registration form on page 9.

SWEA: Swedish Women’s Educational Association

Some of you may have noticed our ad in Flaggan over the years, but perhaps only a few of you are able to actually read what is says, as it is typed in Swedish.

It all started in Los Angeles 37 years ago, when Agneta Nilsson gathered some of her girlfriends and decided to start a non-profit organization for Swedish women who had moved away from their homeland. The main purpose of SWEA was — and still is — to promote and maintain Swedish culture and traditions as well as the Swedish language. The organization grew fast, and by 1981 it developed into SWEA International, an umbrella organization with chapters in different cities, first around the USA and Canada, with Europe, Asia and Africa soon after. Today we are represented on five continents, in about 30 different countries around the world. This makes us the largest non-profit organization promoting Sweden outside of Sweden.

SWEA International, as well as each local chapter, awards grants yearly for projects that promote knowledge and understanding of Swedish culture and heritage. On a yearly basis, SWEA International donates approximately 120,000 USD (2 million SEK) in grants and scholarships to projects associated with Sweden. We also announce the Swedish Woman of the Year to honor a person who in various ways has made an impact or represented Sweden abroad.

Kerstin Lane, the previous executive director for 20 years at the Swedish American Museum, founded the SWEA Chicago chapter in 1981. The Chicago chapter grew from 18 attendees who showed up at that first meeting, to 100 members in a short period. SWEA Chicago has had a steady membership roster of 90 to 130 ever since. The age span is from young to old, and some have been here one year and others over 30, which makes this group of women very resourceful.

Beside the fact that we as an organization promote our culture and traditions, SWEA is so much more for the individual member. On an international level, we are a large network where a member can easily find personal help when moving from one country to another, or even when moving back to Sweden after years abroad. On a local level, we help each other with anything from finding a dentist or a babysitter to housing or a travel companion — you name it! It’s a network of sisters who will help any woman in any situation. Moving to a new country with a new language and culture can be both scary and confusing. Most of our members have done it at some point and are happy to help those who are new to the experience. There are also those who join us for social reasons, and those who like to maintain the Swedish language and traditions and make sure their children do as well.

In Chicago we have over 30 gatherings in a year, and most are for members only. We try hard to accommodate our different age groups when we plan our programs, and we do our best to find different locations throughout the greater Chicago area to please our members who are scattered around the city.

Our events differ in size; we offer smaller gatherings like our popular coffee mornings, when we simply meet for coffee to chat and hang out. This is perfect for newer members in the organization or those who want a feel for what we do and who we are before becoming members. We also arrange game nights and entertainment gatherings, meet to do crafts, plan long walks or cross-country skiing, and schedule lunches and dinners out on the town.

Another favorite gathering place among the mothers in SWEA Chicago is the Brunk Children’s Museum of Immigration, open exclusively to SWEA members and their young children once a month. We appreciate this partnership with the Swedish American Museum, where mothers and children alike enjoy spending time together to play, chat, exchange experiences, find comfort, eat lunch or have a fika.

Some of our larger events include our yearly Shrimp Fest, the Christmas party “Lilla Julafton” and of course Midsummer. At the midsummer celebration (hosted in a member’s home) spouses and children are included as well, which is a great opportunity to have our Swedish community come together and dance around the maypole, eat traditional Swedish food, meet each other’s families and connect. We also participate in the yearly Julmarknad at the Swedish American Museum.

To be accepted as a member of the SWEA organization you need to be a female over 18 years of age, have mastered the Swedish language and live within the local chapter’s geographical boundaries. If you or someone you know have questions or are curious to know more about us and our Chicago chapter, send an email to chicago@swea.org or visit us on the web www.chicago.swea.org and we promise to get back to you.

OSKAR STENMARK TRIO - IN MY GRANDMOTHER’S FOOTSTEPS

Monday, June 19, noon
In Gärdebyn, Dalecarlia, you will find an important and ancient music tradition. The small Swedish village has been a cultural hub for over two hundred years. Oskar Stenmark, a flugelhorn player, is the seventh generation in his family to pass on this tradition, much thanks to his (paternal) grandmother Elsie Börjes, who grew up in Gärdebyn. Elsie went on a U.S. tour with a group of fiddlers in 1956, when she was only 17 years old. 61 years later Oskar is recreating the tour by visiting Minneapolis, Rockford, Bishop Hill, Washington D.C. and New York. Coming to Chicago, also a stop on Elsie’s visit in 1956, the music moves from past to present. Together with Swedish bass player Lars Ekman and Ukrainian-American pianist Alex Pryrody, the group will perform polkas, waltzes and walking tunes, mixed with a contemporary expression and sounds from New York. Bring a brown bag lunch at noon to enjoy the concert that will start at 12:30 p.m. Suggested donation for the concert is $5.
